

Amplifier is American Municipal Power’s flagship publication. This four-color, quarterly magazine is distributed to elected and appointed decision makers in AMP member communities, as well as to AMP consultants, vendors and officials of public power entities across the nation.

AMP is the Columbus-based nonprofit wholesale power supplier and services provider for 131 municipal electric systems and the Delaware Municipal Electric Corporation, in Smyrna, Del., a joint action agency. AMP member communities include 82 in Ohio, 30 in Pennsylvania, six in Michigan, five in Virginia, four in Kentucky, two in West Virginia, one in Indiana and one in Maryland.

Amplifier advances the interests of AMP and its member communities by providing positive technical and human interest content covering a broad spectrum of industry topics.

Using staff-written, syndicated and freelance editorial content, Amplifier helps keep its readers—including mayors, city managers, village administrators and utility superintendents—current on the important technical and social trends in the industry.

One issue each year features AMP’s Annual Services Guide. About twice the page count of the other issues, the popular guide is referred to throughout the year by member community officials and AMP staff members.

As member municipalities have added new technologies—including distributed generation, green power sources and advanced metering systems—to their array of services, the opportunity grows for advertisers to address a broad range of utility needs.
